

How to choose blind for portlights

Portlight type

There are today several portlights types from more than 30 different manufacturers. With a blind from Waterline Design, it will fit almost all of them. We have two sizes of blinds for portlights that cover all of them. Our blinds just need to be larger than the portlight and will though cover a range of portlights, regardless of brand. There will just be different overlap. The blind will also cover many hatch shapes: oval, rectangular and elliptical portlights.

How to measure

To get you size, you measure the height and width (not the diagonal). The most common type is openable portlights with opening inwards. There is also portlights that are not openable. For them you can use our blind as a blackout curtain. It's the same blind for openable and closed portlights.

